

Cabin Master Bedroom Remodel

First of all, thank you SO much for all the well wishes and prayers for a quick recovery to my eye injuries. Yes, I am feeling much better and my vision is almost back to normal. Prayers answered.

Our sweet little cabin in Pinetop, Arizona was in dire need of a master bedroom re-do. The original cabin has lots of knotty pine and charm. We use this small cabin as a vacation rental from Memorial Day to October.

Prior to purchasing it over 25 years ago, someone had built a rather odd master bedroom addition. With popcorn ceilings, faux beams, inadequate lighting and too much drywall, the old master bedroom looked like this.

We didn't help the look by using Scott's bachelor furniture and leftover pieces. Though a rather large room with 3 big windows, I never gave much thought to the furniture placement.

Though unattractive, it was functional.

The first weekend, Tony (the BEST electrician/contractor) took down the faux beams, scrape off the popcorn ceiling, added lighting and ripped up the carpet.

The natural wood wainscoting chopped up the room so we painted it the same color as the walls- Sherwin Williams Cottage White. Since the room is so big and now so white, I chose a vinyl flooring that looks like wood planks to anchor the space.

Here is the finished product. It took a few weekends and many hands, but it is nearly complete for our first guests in May.

I was able to retain a few pieces of furniture~~the Drexel blue checked chairs, the antique trunk and the blue leather sofa (not my favorite but my husband put his foot down on getting rid of it!)

The side table and red desk are new purchases. The pulls on this bedside table were a brushed silver (which was a strange choice) so I spray painted them anodized bronze.

LIFE AT
Bella Terra

I love how the flooring turned out. It looks like real wood and will be warmer during the winter months.

I was going to have the curtains made but it would have been cost prohibitive. These red/cream checked drapes are from The Vermont Country Store. I was so disappointed when Country Curtains closed their store. However, they now sell their products through The Vermont Country Store.

The round primitive table, desk chair and elk lamp were recently purchased from a local vintage store.

The 8' x 10' rug came from Home Depot. The metal etagere was purchased from Ballard Designs long ago as a staging piece in one of my previous remodels. I took these pictures before I pushed the can lights up to the ceiling!

I spent several weeks researching metal beds. I didn't want one that was cheap and wobbly. I am so pleased with this selection from Wayfair. The quilt and shams were a 70% off purchase from Ballard Designs.

There are a few things left to do but all in all, I am very pleased with the change. Though the master bedroom will never look like the rest of the cabin, this room has a pleasant, mountain feel.

Before and After:

Before

After

Here is a list of resources:

Rug Persia Almond Buff 8' x 10' ~~ Home Depot. $225.00

Cavaillon Panel Metal Bed- queen from Wayfair ~~$275.00 (keep on eye on their sales)

Red Writing Desk~~Birch Lane $174.99

Chelmsford Antique Taupe Nightstand from Hayneedle ~~ $244.25

Vinyl Flooring from Home Depot ~~$1,108.70

Red Checked Curtains from the Vermont Country Store~ $59.95 for 2 panels. I doubled up on the windows so total cost was $359.70

Curtain Rods: Lowes

Annabel Patchwork Quilt/Shams from Ballard Design-discontinued but I know it was significantly discounted.

Art by the Bed: Local Goodwill $4.00

Also if you are ever in the White Mountains of Arizona and would like to stay at our cabin, please contact www.vrbo.com, property # 314250!

Mary